Dream and reality.

The legend lives on:
King Ludwig II (1845–1886), who met his death under mysterious circumstances in Lake Starnberg, is a fascinating figure. Every year millions of visitors flock to the palaces of this shy monarch who loved art and loathed state affairs.

Ludwig's father King Maximilian II had Hohenschwangau Castle built as a summer residence by the idyllic Lake Alpsee. Ludwig spent a happy childhood and youth here. The palace is well worth a visit: with its richly decorated rooms and original furniture, it vividly recalls the everyday life of the royal family.

On the shores of the Alpsee with a view of Neuschwanstein Castle, the new Museum of the Bavarian Kings opened in 2011. A walk-through family tree provides an introduction to the history of the Wittelsbachs, one of the oldest dynasties in Europe. See page 23 for details.

Fantastic: Neuschwanstein Castle, Germany's most famous historic building, is the fairy-tale king's medieval Castle of the Grail. The castle rises majestically against the snow-covered Alpine peaks. A visit to the castle is especially enjoyable in winter when you can explore the royal apartments without the crowds of summer visitors.

The romantic landscape of hills and lakes offer front-row seats with breath-taking views of the castle and its majestic mountain setting.

Please note:

The royal castles of Neuschwanstein and Hohenschwangau are signposted with the German word "Königsschlösser"!

Hohenschwangau Castle, the nursery of the fairy-tale king, as well as Neuschwanstein Castle are only 3 miles (5 km) away from Füssen.

A romantic setting.

In Füssen, Bavarian traditions are still very much a part of people's day-to-day lives. Guests from all over the world can experience these customs entirely authentically – for example at an alphorn concert by Lake Hopfensee. The fascinating mountain panorama, the glittering lake and sonorous alphorns – that's pure Bavaria.

High above the River Lech: the Benedictine monastery of St Mang and Füssen's High Palace (Hohes Schloss).

Savour the town's special charm while strolling through the streets and taking a look at the shops: that, too, is something that is especially pleasurable in Füssen. Far from the roar of the traffic, you can enjoy the atmosphere of the Reichenstrasse (main road), wander down crooked lanes and discover many a fine souvenir. Culinary delights and authentic beer gardens are all included, of course.

Tourist Information

① Tourist Information at Kaiser-Maximilian-Platz.

② The Schranneplatz once served as the town's corn market. The late Gothic Corn House is nowadays a popular meeting point with market stands and small catering outlets.

④ The path along the banks of the River Lech runs upstream to the district of Bad Faulenbach and downstream to Lake Forggensee. During a walk you repeatedly catch sight of fine views of the river, which up to the 19th century was an important traffic and trading route navigated by rafts.

⑥ The High Palace (Hohes Schloss). The former residence of the Augsburg prince bishops, with unique illusionist paintings on the façades of the courtyard, is one of the most important late Gothic castle complexes in southern Germany. It now houses the Town Gallery of Paintings and a branch of the Bavarian State Collections of Paintings, where late Gothic and Renaissance works of art are on display.

⑦ St Mang Monastery and Church. The former Benedictine monastery dates back to the 9th century. It was given its present Baroque style by Füssen architect Johann Jakob Herkomer. Today the historical rooms house the municipal authorities and the Füssen Heritage Museum. For 50 years summer chamber music and jazz concerts have been held in the magnificent Prince's Hall. The former monastery church and present-day parish church is the largest and most impressive of Füssen's baroque churches. The crypt is thought to date back in its architectural history to the times of St Magnus and houses Bavaria's oldest fresco.

⑧ The Füssen Heritage Museum. Archaeological finds and art treasures have provided evidence of 1000 years of monastic history. The splendid Baroque rooms, which include the Prince's Hall, give some idea of the former monastery's wealth. The museum also boasts one of the finest collections of historical lutes and violins in Europe.

In the Anna Chapel, which can be reached via the museum, is the impressive Death Dance cycle by Jakob Hiebeler (1602), the oldest of its kind in Bavaria.

⑨ The area of the present-day Bread Market is thought to have been the origin of the medieval town. Today it is here that the Lute-Makers Fountain recalls the historical importance of Füssen as the "Cradle of Lute-Making" in Europe.

⑩ The Reichenstraße, historical patricians' houses, huddling side by side, line the main shopping street in the pedestrian precinct, which is identical to the route of the earlier Roman road Via Claudia Augusta.

The Town Fountain at the upper end of the Reichenstrasse shows St Magnus, Füssen's patron saint. At the fountain a narrow metal strip has been set into the street paving to recall the ancient Roman route of the Via Claudia Augusta in this area.

The restaurants and inns of Füssen offer true Bavarian-style hospitality. Bavarian specialities have a long tradition here and are delicious. These two pages show some examples of typical Bavarian dishes. Please note that they may be prepared slightly differently in the various restaurants.

Boiled white sausages (Weißwürste) ① are served with sweet mustard (süßer Senf) ② and a pretzel (Brezel) ③, a typical Bavarian bread speciality.

Meat loaf (Leberkäse/Fleischkäse) ④ is the favourite dish of many Bavarians. It tastes great with a tangy light or dark wheat beer (Weizenbier) ⑤.

Bavarian-style culinary delights.

A Bavarian snack platter (bayerische Brotzeitplatte) ⑥ includes ham, various kinds of sausage, spicy Allgäu cheese and bread. This also goes well with a wheat beer (Weizenbier) ⑤.

Fried pork sausage with sauerkraut (Schweinsbratwürste mit Sauerkraut) ⑦. These sausages are frequently eaten in a roll as a snack, too.

Cheese spaetzle (Käsespätzle) ⑨ are an Allgäu speciality consisting of noodles mixed with spicy Allgäu cheese and sprinkled with fried onion rings.

Apple Strudel (Apfelstrudel) ⑩, Apples wrapped in sweet strudel pastry with custard or vanilla ice cream and/or whipped cream.

Knuckle of pork (Schweinshaxen) ⑧ is grilled or roasted and usually served with bread dumpling or potato dumpling and red cabbage or sauerkraut. A good hearty Bavarian speciality.

An idyllic place to relax and unwind: the restaurant garden of St Mang, formerly a monastery.

Experience the Allgäu.

Hike in King Ludwig's footsteps: The route runs from Füssen across the River Lech and past the hidden Lake Schwansee to Hohenschwangau Castle, King Ludwig II's childhood paradise. From here the path winds its way uphill to Neuschwanstein Castle.

Approx. 6 km, an easy hike.
Shorter route: take the scheduled bus for either the outward or return trip.

Discover the Allgäu from water!
Take a trip on Forggensee, Bavaria's fifth largest lake and enjoy a fantastic panoramic view of the king's castles of Neuschwanstein and Hohenschwangau, the historical town of Füssen and the surrounding Alpine peaks!

It is hard to imagine a more romantic way to watch the sun go down than on an evening boat ride on the Forggensee. The two-hour trips start from the jetty in Füssen at 7.30 p.m. every Wednesday in July and August.

The Allgäu – yours to discover.

The Allgäu: Bavaria's most beautiful holiday area. The Füssen region with its 935 miles (about 1500 kilometres) of perfectly signposted routes and 65 circuit paths is regarded as a paradise for cyclists. Whether for those with sporting ambitions or more for pleasure, the foothills of the Alps offer the appropriate route for every type of cyclist.

Insider's Tip

Take it easy on a flat walk, sticking to the water's edge in the heart of some impressive mountain scenery. By following the Lechuferweg trail to the shores of the Forggensee, the Hopfenseerundweg, the Weißenseerundweg and the lakeside circuit in the Faulenbach Valley you can discover nature at its most beautiful. The monumental hulk of the Säuling, Füssen's very own mountain, is never out of sight.

Salober-Alm

Leave the historical centre of Füssen, go through the car-free Faulenbach Valley, pass by Lake Alatssee and then go on uphill to the Salober-Alm (located at an altitude of 1087 metres), where food and drinks are available.

Approx. 6–6.5 km one way, a simple hike. Altitude differential approx. 300 m. Duration: approx. 4.5–5.5 hours round trip.

Hopfensee

The starting point is the car park by the lakeside road (Uferstraße) in Hopfen am See (can also be reached by scheduled bus from Füssen bus station!). From here you follow th

The pleasures of the snow.

Have your winter fairy-tale come true: wrapped up in cosy blankets, you glide through the glittering, snow-covered landscape in a horse-drawn sleigh. For example at Lake Hopfensee or Lake Bannwaldsee, where you can observe up to 150 deer living in the wild.

Winter time in Füssen: magnificently fresh winter air and a crystal-clear view of the mountains. The mountain hut tobogganing combination is very popular: climb your way up cleared trails to a warm welcome in a cosy mountain hut, after which you can fly back down the valley on a sled.

Twinkling lights, Allgäu arts and crafts, the delicious fragrance of roast apples and punch: Füssen Christmas Market is held on two weekends in December in the festively illuminated monastery courtyard of St Mang, at the heart of Füssen's historical town centre.

Enjoy a unique blend of the traditional and modern. Brass band music and the sound of rifle fire are an integral part of the experience.

Boat trips on Lake Forggensee

Treat yourself to a magnificent waterborne panorama: the further the Forggensee boat moves away from the lake's southern shore, the more splendid the view of the mountain world of the Ammergau, Lechtal and Tannheim Alps, Neuschwanstein and Hohenschwangau castles and the silhouette of Füssen. Get to know the Allgäu Königswinkel from the water on a relaxing boat excursion on Bavaria's fifth largest lake.

From June 1st to October 15th the two passenger boats of the Füssen shipping company run two round trips of differing length several times a day. The short circuit in the southern section of the lake lasts approx. 55 minutes. The large circuit lasts two hours and runs to the dam at the northern end. At each stop-off point you can leave the boat or take a lunch or coffee break as you please.

Both boats have catering on board and can also be booked for special trips. It is also possible to alternate sections of a hike or cycle tour with a boat trip.
